VATICAN-SPAIN MAY BREAK

CHURCH PLANS ACTION; MANY HURT IN RIOTS

Anti-Religious Policy Causes Disorders In Nation

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 15.—Complete breakdown of all relations between the Vatican and Spain was forecast here today as a result of the anti-religious articles being incorporated in the new constitution.

In an interview with International News Service, a Vatican spokesman declared the situation in Spain was so serious as to necessitate more drastic action than the lodging of a simple protest.

For this reason, the Vatican has taken no steps toward lodging a protest, and none will be presented, according to indications at present, until the situation has been studied in all its details.

A high Vatican official pointed out to International News Service that while the church did not thoroughly approve of the new republican regime in Spain, it was ready and willing to accept formal separation of church and state, as provided for in one article of the new constitution.

This separation, it was said, would be acceptable to the Vatican on the same basis prevailing in the United States and the South American republics, whose authorities guarantee the church certain liberties, particularly regarding religious institutions, orders, convents and schools.

MADRID, Oct. 15.—A series of riots occurred in various parts of Spain today as public feeling over the government's anti-religious measures flared into violence.

With Manuel Azana, war minister and former newspaper reporter, taking charge of the government as provisional president in succession to Niceto Alcalá Zamora, groups of demonstrators clashed in Madrid, Barcelona, Granada and elsewhere.

One person was seriously injured and fifteen slightly hurt when police charged into a group of anti-clerical demonstrators in Madrid. The rioters attempted to repel the police attack by hurling stones but were finally dispersed.

At Barcelona, a group of Catholic students protesting against the anti-religious measures embodied in the proposed constitution, grappled with workmen in front of the government buildings. Police and civil guards dispersed the demonstrators after a scuffle.

Similar riots took place in Granada and Andalusia, with religious sentiment and strike agitation combining to precipitate clashes between opposing factions.

Meanwhile, Azana went ahead with the task of obtaining approval of the new constitution by the constituent Cortes, with the possibility he would have less difficulty than that encountered by Zamora, who resigned in protest against the Cortes anti-religious attitude. Zamora is a staunch Catholic.

All members of Zamora's cabinet remain in the Azana ministry with the exception of the constitutional president and Don Miguel Maura, his minister of the interior.

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 15.—Search was extended throughout central Ohio today for two convicts of the Ohio State Reformatory and four inmates of the prison farm a short distance south of here who escaped last night as though in concerted action.

The two reformatory prisoners scaled the high walls of the institution to gain freedom. The quarter of the prison farm merely walked away.

UNEARTH RELICS OF PAST

Old Gowns And Jewels Link Eccentric Recluse
With Hey-Dey In Gay Nineties

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Old lace and lavender, jewels and cameos, voluminous, costly ball gowns she wore when she danced with the Prince of Wales and her beau, Samuel J. Tilden, three-quarters of a century ago were expected to be yielded up today in a search of Mrs. Ida E. Wood's forty musty trunks.

Relatives of the recluse in whose dingy hotel apartment $900,000 in cash and a fortune in gems and antiques already were found, prepared to interrupt legal action over her guardianship long enough today to examine more of her property.

Meanwhile, presentation of "shocking and unconscionable" bills against the estate, now handled under court order by Otis F. Wood, nephew of Mrs. Wood, had been protested to Supreme Court Justice Untermyer. Affidavits filed on behalf of Mrs. Blanche Shields, granddaughter of the aged hermit, criticized the fees of attorneys, physicians and alienists as well as private detectives, intimating they were "flagrantly" too large.

SOCIAL COLLAPSE POSSIBLE IS CLAIM OF BRITISH WRITER

Says Politicians And Speculators Must Be Thrown Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—"The western civilization is on the brink of an economic and social breakdown. One wheel of the car is already over the cliff. We must throw out the politicians and speculators before the car goes over."

That is what H. G. Wells, prophet and scientist, told International News Service in an exclusive interview today.

Wells has come over from London to arrange for the publication of his latest 250,000-word book, "The Work, Wealth and Happiness of Mankind"—a book on the pressing problems of the world today.

He predicts the next four years will prove one of the greatest tests of brain power mankind has ever faced. Either the much-acclaimed brain of man will find a solution or modern civilization as we know it will crumble.

Wells said America should have no misunderstanding of the situation in Europe—"Germany and central Europe is on the verge of social breakdown that threatens to sweep the western world," he said.

"People are losing confidence in money. They are losing confidence in government. Unless this confidence is restored we will have a social breakdown."

"The danger of a social collapse is already very near in Germany and central Europe."

"Such a collapse would result in a complete breakdown of trade because it would come through the destruction of confidence in money—making it impossible to carry on industry."

"It would mark the failure of capitalism. Communism would sweep the western world. You will have enormous masses not only unemployed, but starving people, who will be angry, disposed to violence."

"You will have people in authority frightened by the crowds and provoking them in all sorts of ways by repression."

"Most of the people brought up in the security of the last century think this is very wild talk. It is not wild at all. The social order of the last 100 years is no sort of guarantee."

Despite this gloomy outlook and his fears of the dangers confronting mankind, Wells believes that there is a solution—and that solution rests with America and Britain.

"I am quite sure that the English-speaking people have enough knowledge and ability to end the crisis and restore normal conditions," Wells continued.

"The whole trouble is that this knowledge and ability is not operative. Our present political machine is not using the expert scientific knowledge which exists."

"This competent knowledge must be applied to the situation before it is too late. We must get rid of those two evil influences—the politicians and speculators."

Asked whether he meant that the present political machines should be replaced by governments of business and industrial leaders, Wells replied:

"Not by any means. What is needed and what I see as the only solution to the crisis is a government of economic experts."

In conclusion, Wells suggested America and Britain should call a conference of economic experts to work out new methods of international trade.

BANKER STAGES GUN BATTLE WITH BANDITS

The 200 residents of Linton, Ind., are lauding the heroism of Marion Bailey, 72, who engaged in a gun battle with robbers who looted the bank of which he is president. At his home, just across the street from the bank, Bailey was awakened by dynamite blasts within the bank. Through his front door he fired his shotgun at the robbers. They returned fire as they fled with the money, totalling approximately $6,000 in cash and securities. Nearby streets were covered with empty shells. Dynamite partially wrecked the rear of the bank, which is situated in the three-story brick building at the left. Bailey, inset, lives in the house across the street, on the right side of the photo.

LOUISIANA'S CIVIL FIGHT NEAR THIRD ENTERS FIELD

Citizen Takes Oath; Claims Long And
Cyr Are Both Out

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 15.—Further complicated by the advent of a third claimant to the governorship, Louisiana's civil political war today approached an issue in the courts.

While Governor Huey P. Long continued in actual command of the state administration, his enemy, Lieutenant-Governor Paul Cyr, prepared to enter the courts and assert his right to the governorship. Disclaiming any intention of forcibly seizing the reins of government, Cyr announced that his attorneys are getting ready to file suit within a few days demanding the dismissal of Gov. Long.

The political turmoil pervading the state capital was further increased by the contention of Walter L. Aldrich of Shreveport that he is now the lawful governor of Louisiana.

Following the example of Cyr, the Shreveport citizen was sworn in as governor late yesterday and immediately announced he will file his oath of office with the state secretary. The oath was administered by a notary public and a cousin of Governor Long, E. G. Eagles.

Aldrich declared that neither Long nor Cyr have any right to the governorship. Long forfeited the office when his election to the United States Senate was certified. Aldrich contended, since Cyr did not immediately assume the governorship, the office was left open, according to Aldrich, and any citizen could therefore take the office by the expedient of having the oath administered and filed.

The lieutenant-governor's office today was occupied by Alvin O. King, president pro-tem of the state senate. King was sworn into office after Governor Long had appointed him to succeed Cyr.

"We're doing business at the same old stand," Governor Long said, "the state of Louisiana is riding along as serenely as if Paul Cyr did not exist."

"Cyr is just out of a job as far as the state of Louisiana is concerned. I'll put him in jail if he gets rowdy."

Fortifying his position, the governor augmented the military guard posted in and about the capitol buildings. A detail of armed highway policemen was stationed in the office of Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, secretary of state. The guards were instructed to eject Cyr should he appear to file his oath of office. They were also ordered to arrest and jail him should he become insistent.

Two of the institutions, the Dollar Savings and Trust Co. and the City Trust and Savings Co., both under state control, were closed permanently, it was announced.

The third bank, the First National, affiliated with the Dollar Savings and Trust, was closed temporarily while plans for its consolidation with two other Youngstown banks are effected, according to an announcement.

The two state banks were to be taken over today by the state for liquidation due to "frozen" assets and large withdrawals. The action was taken, the announcement said, "for the protection of depositors."

The resources of the Dollar Bank were estimated at $25,000,000, and those of the City Trust and Savings at $19,000,000.

The First National Bank, with resources estimated at $23,000,000, will be consolidated with the Dollar National Bank and the Commercial National Bank, it was said.

A total of $2,000,000 has been subscribed in stock in the proposed consolidated institution, it was disclosed with the announcement of the temporary closing of the First National.

REJECT PROBE OF DISPUTE BY LEAGUE GROUP

Japanese Cavalry Routs
Chinese In Further
Fighting

By International News Service
Japan today vetoed league efforts to obtain direct participation of the United States in the league council's negotiations to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute in Manchuria.

While other members of the council at Geneva were drafting the invitation to Washington the Tokio foreign office made known its stand. At the same time Japan rejected the suggestion that a league commission inquire into the Manchurian dispute.

Meanwhile according to international News Service reports, fighting continued in Manchuria with Chinese troops retreating across the Liao River southwest to Mukden, after sharp skirmishes with Japanese cavalry. Peiping near Japanese intent to occupy the Peiping-Mukden railway from Mukden to the Great Wall.

Japan is withholding from publication two notes on the Manchurian crisis from Washington, fearing outbursts of anti-American opinion.

TOKYO, Oct. 15.—Formal notification that Japan does not desire American participation in the League of Nations Council's discussions of the Manchurian crisis was cabled to Geneva today.

The government instructed its League council representative, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, to exert all his efforts toward withdrawal of American participation.

No official reason was given for the government's stand.

A spokesman at the foreign office, however, told International News Service that fears were felt Japanese approval of American participation might have the effect of inflaming anti-American sentiment in this country.

The question of American participation was debated by the cabinet of Prime Minister Reijiro Wakatsuki at a lengthy session.

Yoshizawa had advised the cabinet of the League council's proposal to invite the United States to assign an official observer to the council.

During the course of the cabinet's deliberations, numerous rumors filtered through the closed doors of the room where the session was in progress. There were some reports Japan might welcome American participation on certain conditions, and the adverse decision occasioned considerable surprise.

It was understood Baron Shidehara, in his capacity as foreign minister, immediately drafted a cable of full instructions for Yoshizawa and dispatched it to Geneva.

Reaction of the council and the United States to the decision was eagerly awaited.

MUKDEN, Oct. 15.—Chinese troops were in full retreat today across the Liao River after two sharp skirmishes with Japanese cavalry in which the combined casualties on both sides totaled more than a score.

In the first of these one Japanese was killed and two seriously wounded.

The second engagement, fifteen miles northeast of Chulihou station, lasted two hours. Sixteen Chinese were killed in the fighting and an uncounted number of wounded carried off the field after the battle.

In one skirmish Japanese infantry routed a charge, killing five of its members and capturing Kuomintang national flags and banners.

Late today the first expeditionary forces sent out to clear Chinese "bandit troops" out of the zone through which the Japanese-owned railway runs started back towards Mukden, according to a communique issued at the Japanese headquarters there.

Officials of the Peiping-Mukden Railway here have been notified that they can now safely resume service. There will be military inspection of all trains along the line, beginning at Chulihou, because of reported sniping by "plain clothes" soldiers filtering into Mukden from the surrounding countryside.

EDISON CONTINUES IN LOSING FIGHT

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 15.—Thomas A. Edison continued to lose ground today in his long fight for life. He awoke at 7:45 o'clock this morning and promptly went back to sleep again, according to a morning bulletin on his condition issued by Charles Edison, his son.

The bulletin was issued in denial of a false report of the inventor's death.

Dr. Hubert S. Howe, Edison's physician, arrived this morning at the inventor's home for his usual examination of his patient.

EQUITABLE TAXING FAVORED BY COOPER BEFORE FARM CLUBS

Former Governor Expresses Views On Tax Question

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 15.—Former Governor Myers Y. Cooper, said to be a likely candidate for reelection to the governorship in 1932, today took an open stand on the most question of taxation which he indicated will probably be the principal issue of the forthcoming gubernatorial campaign.

Addressing the tenth annual convention of the Women's Federated Farm Clubs of Richland County at Rome, near here, former Governor Cooper declared his opposition to an increase in the aggregate amount of taxes but insisted "upon more equitable taxation through a wider spread."

"Relief must be granted to those who are paying more than their share by obligating for their equitable portion, those who have heretofore not been paying their proportionate shares," he said.

Possibility that the former governor will be a candidate for reelection upon a taxation platform was revealed recently by International News Service in an exclusive interview with former State Finance Director Harry Silver, his intimate adviser.

ORGANIZED DRYS TO DEMAND DRY TICKET M'BRIDE DECLARES

Oppose Wet Candidate
As Hoover Running
Mate, He Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Organized drys will demand an "all dry" Republican presidential ticket in 1932 and will not give President Hoover whole-hearted support if a wet candidate is named for the vice-presidency, F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, said today.

Aroused by reports that Republican politicians are seeking an anti-prohibition candidate for vice-president to "balance" the ticket, the drys are planning a determined pre-convention fight to block the movement.

Republican wets have figured prominently in vice-presidential discussions since vice-president Charles Curtis indicated he may be a candidate for his old senate seat next year.

Before the death of Senator Dwight Morrow it was reported that powerful eastern Republicans, with an eye to votes in the wet states, hoped to make Morrow the running mate of Mr. Hoover.

"It would be the most foolish thing the Republican party could do," said McBride. "It would not give the ticket any strength and it would hurt the candidacy of Mr. Hoover."

"The drys are interested in the election of a vice-president, because he is president of the senate and may become president of the nation. The ticket cannot be divided in voting for electors."

"For exactly the same reasons the Anti-Saloon League will support a dry candidate for President. It would support a dry candidate for vice-president."

The drys, according to McBride, hold it is "a foregone conclusion" that Mr. Hoover will not only be renominated but will be regarded as a dry.

"The nomination of a wet for vice-president would cool the enthusiasm of the drys to the ticket," he said. "Many drys would not vote for Mr. Hoover for President if he had a wet running mate. He ought to be given a companion on the ticket who will cooperate in the enforcement of the law."

PREACHER DOESN'T HAVE TO TURN CHEEK VERDICT SHOWS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Oct. 15.—"It proves that a preacher does not have to turn the other cheek when he is struck," was the comment today of Rev. H. O. Teagarden of Sewellville, O., upon the decision of Justice of the Peace C. B. Bradford acquitting him of an assault charge on complaint of L. C. Hoffman, an elder of the Sewellville Methodist Church.

Teagarden's acquittal was based on "justification" by Bradford, following a stormy two-day trial in which Teagarden was accused of striking Hoffman in the face and attempting to choke him when the two men argued in Sunday School services in the Sewellville Church two weeks ago.

Teagarden, now a member of the congregation at the village, was ousted from the Northeast Ohio Methodist Episcopal Conference several years ago because he allegedly planned to get publicity by swimming Catalina Channel. He was spiritual adviser to Glenn Dague and Irene Schroeder, electrocuted last year for the murder of a Pennsylvania state trooper, after a two-day illness.

DAYTON PHYSICIAN AGAIN HEADS STAFF OF O. S. & S. O. HOME

Doctors Also Endorse
Nursery; Reports Are Heard Here

Dr. Walter M. Simpson, pathologist at Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton, was re-elected dean of the Medical and Surgical Consulting Staff of the O. S. & S. O. Home at the twenty-sixth annual staff meeting at the institution Wednesday, Dr. A. C. Messenger, resident home physician, was re-named secretary.

A resolution endorsing the institution's request for release by the state board of control of funds for construction of a nursery at its home was passed by the staff at its business meeting in the forenoon.

Requests for appropriation of $100,000 to build and an additional $10,000 to equip a new nursery building were contained in the biennial Home budget.

It is pointed out that a nursery would take care of 160 children between the ages of 1 and 7. At present the orphanage is not equipped to care for the younger children. The younger boys are housed in two wards of the old hospital wards being of frame construction, old and not sanitary.

The feeding arrangement is also deemed unsatisfactory. The food is cooked in the new hospital kitchen and carried a distance of about 150 yards to a makeshift dining room. Most of the children being admitted to the institution at present are young children and generally sons and daughters of World War veterans.

The custom of holding a clinic for defective children was not followed this year. Instead the staff members met at the new hospital and participated in a general discussion of the medical department.

Capt. Harold L. Hays, superintendent, gave an address of welcome and Dr. Messenger, secretary of the organization, submitted his annual report as home physician. Dr. B. R. McClellan, prominent Xenia surgeon and head of McClellan Hospital, outlined a history of the consulting staff and summarized its accomplishments during the twenty-six years of its existence.

Dr. R. R. McClellan, Xenia, also reported on developments in the peculiar case of an 11-year-old girl, pupil of the Home, ill for two years and now confined in Miami Valley Hospital at Dayton. The symptoms of the strange illness have proved baffling to medical authorities. The little girl is suffering from a poisonous condition from goitre, thyroid and kidney trouble.

Miss Louise Schrader, head of the Miami Valley Hospital nursing school, spoke to a class of nine girls taking nursing at the Home. Twenty-nine leaders in the profession of medical and surgical work from various parts of the state compose the consulting staff, and between fifteen and twenty of the members were present for the yearly meeting, which was climaxed by a luncheon served at 1 o'clock. Covers were laid for about seventy persons, including many visitors.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—A request for release of $100,000 for construction of a nursery and $100,000 for erection of a grade school building at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home in Xenia was to be made to the state board of control here this afternoon by Paul M. Herbert, Columbus, state commander of the American Legion.

Mechanical corn harvesters as well as some of the best hand huskers of Greene County will be seen in action at the Corn Harvest Field Day and Husking Contest at the O. A. Dobbins farm near Cedarville, Thursday, October 29.

The champion stalk husker will be selected at this event to represent the county at the state contest, where the state champion will be selected to represent Ohio at the national event. A prize of $50 cash, the Ohio champion's silver trophy and a free trip to the national contest will be awarded the state champion.

County Agent E. A. Drake reports that a number of entries have already been received in this sporting event of the day. The contest is open to everyone; but participants should notify the agent as soon as possible in order that arrangements can be made to take care of them. Wagons, drivers, referees and gleasers will be provided each contestant who for a given length of time will husk from two rows into the wagon practically all of the marketable ears reasonably free from husks. Rules and regulations will be sent those entering the contest.

SOCIETY ENJOYS ANNUAL LUNCHEON WEDNESDAY

Outstanding on its social calendar of the year was the annual luncheon of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Reformed Church at the home of Mrs. W. L. Miller, N. Detroit St., Wednesday afternoon. A three course luncheon was served at 1 o'clock and there were covers for thirty-six members and guests. The tables were decorated in Halloween appointments and the place cards were symbolic of the church's colors in black, red and yellow.

The Rev. and Mrs. Loren Veith, of Pleasant Valley Mission, near Dayton, presented a program in the afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Veith showed stereoscopic slides of the mission, which is supported by the Reformed Church, and Mrs. Veith told of her work among the women and girls of the mission.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Thou shalt not sacrifice unto the Lord thy God any bullock, or sheep, wherein is blemish, or any evilfavouredness; for that is an abomination unto the Lord thy God.—Deuteronomy, xvii, 1.

FRIENDS OF BOTH

The propriety of Secretary Stimson's activities in the interest of peace in Manchuria is legally unassailable. The wisdom of his going very much further in that direction is another matter.

As friends to both the Chinese and the Japanese, Americans are loath to see them drift into open hostilities; but, apart from the protection of the large commercial interests they have in China, which might be jeopardized by Japanese aggression, Americans are not directly concerned with what is transpiring in that remote quarter of the globe. They are under no obligation to pull China's chestnuts out of the fire or to fight her battles for her. As far as the Administration can promote the cause of peace in general by reminding the disputants of their pacific pledges, all well and good. Carrying such reminders to the point of arousing the resentment of either Japan or China would be to lose much, without gaining anything.

Already the friendly interest shown by our State Department and by the League of Nations has played into the hands of the Japanese jingoes. We have been warned by Japanese newspapers to keep our fingers out of the Manchuria pie, which they claim for their own country. We are not directly interested in the row; consequently we can take a calm and legalistic view of it. The Japanese can't. We can remind Shidehara, Japan's foreign minister for the time being, that nine years ago he signed a multilateral treaty in Washington pledging his country to respect the territorial and administrative integrity of China. That treaty provided for "full and frank communication between the Contrasting Powers" whenever a violation of the treaty seemed imminent. The Covenant of the League of Nations, a document to which both China and Japan have adhered, specifically permits intervention by the League in just such cases as that which has arisen in Manchuria. When the League makes bold to speak or Secretary Stimson reminds the disputants of their pledges under the Pact of Paris or the Nine-Power Treaty, Japan takes it ill!

What can you do with countries like that? China doesn't want to fight, but may be forced to. Japan, which apparently wants to fight, will not permit her wrath to be turned away by the soft words of pacific documents and "gentlemen's agreements." The State Department seems to have well nigh exhausted its "friendly offices." There it should stop. Otherwise it will risk putting this country in the position of having its bluff called. That would not help China. What it might easily do is to excite the animosity of Japan, which seemingly is embarked on an adventure in aggrandizement, with an appetite enhanced by the prospect of an easy victory over its ponderous but flabby neighbor. That would not help us.

PART PAYMENT

Credit for considerable ingenuity must go to those who are suggesting a transfer of British warships to the United States in part payment of the English war debt to this country, and in order to help "clear away obstacles to an early agreement for an international holiday."

Considered from a purely theoretical standpoint the scheme is quite interesting. The United States has fallen so far behind in its naval program that its status as a first-class sea power is mostly imaginary. But the Government and a considerable part of the public are lacking in urge to spend money for proper development of the fleet at present.

On the other hand, Great Britain with a relatively powerful fleet is hard pressed on the financial side. Its supply of money for payment of debts or even to meet current expenses is lamentably limited. Let it meet a part of its obligations to this country in war vessels instead of gold, and pressure might lessen all around.

Unfortunately, theory and practice do not invariably harmonize, as the world has discovered on many occasions and through expensive experimentation. And there are certain objections to this latest scheme for adjustment of the financial relationships between the governments of the United States and Great Britain. For example, there is a saying to the effect that the way to lose a friend is to sell him a second-hand automobile. If this is true with respect to cars why not with respect to warships?

Or if it isn't true, doesn't the proposal for a deal originate in the wrong quarter? Most people will remember the cold reception London has given proposals that British West India possessions be transferred to the United States a part payment of British obligations to this nation. If any further serious suggestion for liquidation of the British debt by delivery of property instead of money or securities are to be advanced, they should originate on the other side of the Atlantic.

HITLER ADMITS

"Handsome Adolf" Hitler, having admitted without any coyness that he stands willing to become the Mussolini of Germany and a father to its people, one of his lieutenants in Hartzburg explains how Hitler expects to get into power. Hugenberg's Nationalists and Seldt's "Steel Helms" and other groups of malcontents are to be welcomed as temporary allies and are to be used as convenient instruments in the national and state parliamentary bodies so that the "Fascists" may seize power "legally." After that they are to be thrown into the discard.

This frank exposure of the sort of political morality prevalent among the Hitlerites ought not to help Adolf in winning adherents if it gets any wide advertisement throughout Germany. In its crudeness and in its callousness it is Bolshevistic rather than Fascist, even though it may be true, as one of Hitler's lieutenants contends, that Mussolini himself used temporary coalitions in order to get where he is, and subsequently squelched all political organizations but his own. Mussolini was not silly. In trying to get people to work with him so that he could put over his own particular plans, he did not start in by notifying them that he was a double-crosser and intended to use them as dupes. Indeed, it is quite improbable that he ever had any such purpose consciously in his mind.

The Fascist regime in Italy is the result of an evolutionary process rather than the fruit of a carefully conceived design to establish a despotism. Its development was determined largely by what Mussolini considered the needs of his country as shaped by the exigencies of the time. Mussolini is essentially a patriot. Hitler's scheme, on the other hand, seems to be little better than a plot of an ambitious political adventurer to grab off a place of power and notoriety for himself. In his theatricalism he makes us think of d'Annunzio rather than Mussolini.

A curiosity of American political life is the penchant of electorates for giving the most votes to candidates who have spent the most public money or promise to spend the most, when the first thing needed is retrenchment in public expenditures.

It is true, too, that Mr. Coolidge has been president and knows that life in the White House with Congress at the other end of the avenue is not all joy and pleasure.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—Few realize the extent to which television has become a routine affair at the broadcasting stations. Speakers and singers fill in and out of the hushed small booths all evening, and visitors peek once into the visors of the receiving sets in nearby rooms and pass on. A half year ago the instruments were mobbed like Broadway show windows containing rattles and bells and perpetual motion machines.

My first television experience, the other night, was like a séance, with a machine for a medium and skepticism banished. I was to interview Mr. Arthur Garfield Hays, the great liberal lawyer, of "monkey trial" and other celebrated causes fame.

Mr. Hays is impetuous. He marched adventurously into the darkness of the broadcasting booth at Columbia. He had never seen a television apparatus before. In the rectangle of flickering light he answered questions with the same passionate conviction which has made him risk mob violence time after time. I should think it would be difficult to thunder down dictums on the rights and liberties of man in that eerie silence, that spooky aura of the machine age.

Mr. Hays is a veritable New Yorker. I wish I might make you know all the other flashing personalities which make Manhattan more than the skyline and the tumbling mob. Mr. Hays is peculiarly a New Yorker for, as he said, "I live here because I like excitement. I like experiment and intellectual tumult and change."

HOP, SKIP AND JUMP

The skyline fluctuates like a hand saw, but that's not what alters the town beyond recall. The changes below the skyline are the important ones—the vanishing landmarks which disintegrate under wreckers' blasts before anyone realizes. This morning I noticed the razed men at work on the old Audubon home, at 155th street and Riverside drive. Here the great naturalist and painter did most of his work. Here F. B. Morse perfected the telegraph.

IN WALL STREET

A sign in front of J. P. Morgan's offices in Wall Street reminds passersby that the sidewalk is private property and permission to use it is "revocable." A similar notice posted by the Irving Trust company, a few doors up the street, declares that the walk there is privately owned and that right-of-way upon it is "revocable." Last week an executive of the bank noticed the difference in spelling of the word and set about discovering who was wrong. The inquiry involved high-ups of both concerns and a good deal of correspondence—even some acrimonious debate. At length both houses found authority to back them and the "k" and "c" remained respectively unchanged.

Time is reported to be hanging heavy in Wall Street, now, anyway, and the folk there must have something to do. Poking my head briefly into the most expensive and ornate speakeasy-restaurant in New York, where drinks are a dollar and incidentals sky-high, I found the place packed with a merry crowd in evening attire. This was a week night. Too Depression could not be discovered on the premises—where depression, in all reason, ought to stalk most somberly.

EYES OF THE WORLD!

KEYNOTE TO PROSPERITY SEEN IN HUGE BOND ISSUE FOR BUILDING PROGRAM

CHARLES F. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—"Don't hoard; spend," is the burden of Walter S. Gifford's exhortation, striving, as chairman of President Hoover's unemployment commission, to lift the depression.

"He's right," said the Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, director of the social action department of the national Catholic welfare conference, professor of moral theology and industrial ethics at the Catholic University of Washington and recognized the world over as one of the most brilliant and original among modern economists.

"Nevertheless," added the doctor, "folk are not going to resume normal spending simply in response to Mr. Gifford's exhortation or any other man's. In such times, they naturally are apprehensive as to the future and are going to save all they can against eventualities."

"That," said Dr. Ryan, "is one of the two main reasons why a large federal bond issue for public improvements is so urgently needed."

"It will furnish work for the unemployed."

"It will bring out saved-up money, put it into circulation, start spending again and produce just the psychological impression required to dissipate the present atmosphere of industrial discouragement."

"Critics of last winter's relief effort," continued the doctor, "speak of the program of new federal buildings as having failed to accomplish much."

"Of course, it was totally inadequate."

"This is no small emergency, to be met by an appropriation of a hundred million or so."

"An allowance of at least five billions is essential."

"Whenever there is a dearth of private employment, the time manifestly is opportune," agreed the economist, "for public building, reforestation, flood control and industrial waterways development, but all these call for advance planning and preparation."

"Such plans should be made during the coming winter, with a view to actual operations beginning in the spring, if the situation is still acute."

"On the improvement of country roads and the elimination of grade crossings a start can be made immediately and work can be pushed, throughout most of the country, even in cold weather."

"Forty-seven thousand miles of highway," related Dr. Ryan, "are ready for hard surfacing throughout the United States, as soon as the money is available. The cost will be about a billion and a half."

"A third of our grade crossings can be done away with at an expense of $100,000,000."

"I am in reality, however, such a thing as overproduction—or is there overconsumption?"

"Considering the question from the whole world's standpoint," answered Dr. Ryan, "I believe there is no such thing as overproduction, generally speaking. There does appear to be, as to a few classes of products, textiles, for example."

"With these exceptions, if all living standards were at the world's maximum level, my opinion is that production and consumption would be equal."

"Put in some Hope, too. It's been knocking a bit and it needs cleaning up. I don't seem to be getting all the power out of the bus that I should. It just eats up the gas and I don't get any mileage. Pour in a quart of Hope."

Put in some plain ordinary Common Sense while you are at it. I could stand a little of that, to cut the nonsense out of the motor and make it run sweetly again. Just a few drops of Common Sense will help a lot.

And please wipe off the windshield. I've been running through fog and dust. I can hardly see a hundred yards ahead of me—and a man needs to see clearly these days.

That's right—fill 'er up—fill up the tank. Give me Courage and Faith and Hope and a Common Sense and wipe off the windshield—and put a little Patience on the rag to keep it from fogging again.

And I'll go away smiling and be much obliged to YOU.

ALL of US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

"Fill 'Er Up!" Put in some Courage. Some Faith and Common Sense.

By MARSHALL MASLIN

You drive into the service station and you shut off your motor and you wait for the smiling young fellow to serve you. Here he comes. "Shall I fill it up?" says he.

"Shall he fill it up, shall he? Shall he fill it up?"

"Sure, fill her up!"

Fill it with gasoline, and put in a few other things, too, if you will. Put in a little Courage, please. The old motor needs it. It's been running into a lot of pessimism lately. Times have been tough for it. It needs all the Courage it can get.

Put in some Faith. It's been climbing too many grades and sometimes I think it's just about to quit. The old engine doesn't seem to know that at the end of every grade there's a road that runs down hill. It needs Faith.

pense of three and a half billions. "These improvements will be permanent and valuable—not in the nature of what socialists call 'made work'; that is to say, work merely for work's sake."

"And they would furnish employment, which could start practically at a day's notice, and last through the next few months, for approximately 500,000 men, while the supplying of the material necessary would utilize the energies of most of the remaining involuntarily idle."

"Red tape would have to be slashed in every direction," conceded the doctor, "to enable such an organization to function. Probably control would have to be placed in the hands of an emergency committee."

"Undoubtedly, too, adoption of the plan would mark the end of state participation in highway construction."

"This would bring relief to agriculture, since the federal government's method of meeting payments almost certainly would be through the fairer method of increased levies on large incomes."

"Will unemployment presently pass, or has the mechanization of industry established it as a problem to continue indefinitely?"

"Seemingly," said the doctor, "we have reached a point where 75 or 80 per cent of the potential work can supply the necessities, the comforts and most of the luxuries of life for our entire population."

"A choice of three courses is open to society:

"1. To let 75 or 80 per cent of our number work, and support the remaining 20 or 25 per cent—which really is no solution at all."

"2. To maintain a vast system of public works as a permanency—which is open to the objection that the privately employed might ultimately tire of so heavy a burden, though willing to carry it during a period of stress like the present one."

"3. To shorten working hours—the solution likeliest of adoption, possibly with some subsequent lengthening of the day, should it prove to have been too sharply curtailed initially."

"Is there, in reality, however, such a thing as overproduction—or is there overconsumption?"

"Considering the question from the whole world's standpoint," answered Dr. Ryan, "I believe there is no such thing as overproduction, generally speaking. There does appear to be, as to a few classes of products, textiles, for example."

"With these exceptions, if all living standards were at the world's maximum level, my opinion is that production and consumption would be equal."

approximately balance."

Yet a thickly-populated, poverty-stricken country like China could hardly lift its living standard without an intensification of its industries, in which event, it immediately would become a more formidable competitor of the world's already-industrialized countries than their profitable customer.

The doctor nodded.

"My guess," he said, "is that finally there will have to be an international allocation of markets."

Fried Eggplant Tomato Salad
Inexpensive Ice Cream Coffee

The ice cream may be made in an ordinary freezer by following the directions given for the iceless freezing method. Pack in ice and salt and freeze to mushy stage, then add egg whites and cream and continue freezing until stiff.

Today's Recipes

Fried Eggplant—Pare eggplant and cut in very thin slices. Soak in cold water one hour to draw out the bitter taste. Drain and wipe dry. Dredge with seasoned flour and brown in butter, or dip in slightly beaten egg and fine dry bread crumbs and fry in deep fat, 360 to 375 degrees, for about two minutes.

Inexpensive Ice Cream—Two cups milk, three-fourths cup sugar, pinch salt, one tablespoon cornstarch, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup cream, one egg white, eight marshmallows. Scald milk in double boiler. Melt sugar in saucepan, stirring until syrup turns a light brown. Add to milk in boiler. Also add marshmallows, quartered, and cornstarch dissolved in a little cold milk. Add vanilla. Cook fifteen minutes, stirring until thickened. Cool. Turn into refrigerator or tray and freeze to mush, then fold in egg white and the cream, whipped stiff. Return to tray and finish freezing.

Suggestions

Peach Ice Cream
Three cups soft sliced peaches, one cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two cups single cream, one tablespoon or more lemon juice, depending on the acidity of the peaches. Cover the sliced peaches with the sugar and let stand for about half an hour. Press the fruit through a colander to form pulp. Add the salt, cream and lemon juice. Use a freezing mix.

Turn the crank of the freezer slowly. After freezing remove the dasher, pack the freezer with more ice and salt, and let the cream stand an hour or more to ripen.

Pickled Peaches
Eight pounds peaches, four pounds sugar, two quarts vinegar, four two-inch pieces stick cinnamon, cloves. Select firm white peaches either free or clingstone. Wash them well, and remove the thin skin with a sharp knife. Cook the vinegar, cinnamon and sugar together for ten minutes or until a fairly thick syrup is formed. Add the fruit, after placing a clove or two in each peach. Allow the peaches to cook gently until tender, but not broken. Remove them from the syrup and then cook the syrup rapidly until thick. Pour over the fruit and let stand over a second time. Fill sterilized jars with the peaches and cover them with the hot syrup. Seal, label and store in a cool place. Allow the peaches to stand several weeks to develop flavor before serving.

Common Foods Are Best

By LOGAN CLENDENIN, M. D.

Vitamins have become so familiar that the jokesters of the nation can make them the subject of their merriest at any opportunity. We know a good deal more about their chemical structure, and so when somebody says: "Let me see one of those vitamins I hear so much about," we are unable to satisfy the demand, and this is likely to lead to some doubt and consequent scoffing.

More fuel for this has been furnished by the habit of manufacturers and food purveyors advertising some certain product as containing an especially large amount of this or that vitamin.

As Dr. Morris Fishbein says, the American people are extremely liable to go to extremes in health programs. If someone says that a kind of fruit juice is a good food and contains a lot of vitamin C, the result is that large numbers of the population drink or eat practically nothing else but that fruit juice for a while.

In spite of all this, the vitamins are real enough. The role they play in health is a very important one. No single contribution to the science of nutrition has been more important than the growth of our definite knowledge about the vitamins.

The most valuable thing to remember, however, is that our common foods are the best sources of vitamins. Artificial products for which the claim is made that they contain a great deal of vitamin this or that are usually not as reliable for this purpose as the average food. The amount of vitamin D in age foods any normal person uses during the course of an average day.

The practice of exposing foods to irradiation by violet rays in order to increase the content of vitamin D is an illustration of what I mean. To quote Dr. Fishbein again, the amount of vitamin D in some irradiated cereals is so slight that an infant would be required to eat four pounds of cereal daily to get the equivalent of a normal dosage of cod liver oil.

It is significant that when manufacturers of such vitaminized products are urged to have a standard for the amount of vitamin their products should contain, the standards set up are those of very common food substances. Carrots for vitamin A, yeast for vitamin B, orange juice for vitamin C and cod liver oil for vitamin D.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS.
Mrs. J. J. A.: "Ten years ago my mother came to California from New York and was deathly sick on the train during the entire trip. She is planning to return, and would appreciate knowing how this sickness could be avoided, or in any way helped. She gets sick if traveling by boat."

Answer: Car sickness is not always easy to control. It is probably due, as is sea sickness, to a disturbance of the semi-circular canals in the middle ear. Thus removing any irritation of the ear—cleaning out the nose and throat—may tend to prevent it. Also removing sources of absorption—cleaning out the bowels before the journey, eating a liquid diet. Mild hypnotics, such as a medicinal or veronal, are reported helpful.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Girl Would Gain Personality

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: How may a quiet, uninteresting girl acquire charm and personality?"

"MARILYN."

Shakespeare said, "All the world is a stage, and all the men and women merely players." Marilyn. But some of us are the chorus, the extras, you know—I'd say the greater part of us are that.

There are only a few stars. And besides the extras who need only look and a good stage presence, there has to be an audience. And the audience is a very important part of the theater—whether it's in a legitimate theater or a hickie.

Why not be a good sympathetic audience, Marilyn? You can read—the papers, books, all sorts of things, particularly people. You can give the latter a "hand" when they are down in the dumps and feel that their act is a failure.

You can listen feelingly to their woes, you can be intelligent and interested when they prattle of their families, work or hobbies.

You can learn to chatter just to fill in the time if the company is stiff—a person who can do that is a boon to mankind. You may naturally be quiet, but you need never be uninteresting if you're willing to listen and draw another person out.

DEVOTED DORIS: Well, you poor little kid, you are desperately in love, aren't you? Wish I had a love potion to minister to your boy friend to make him love you and you only forever.

I haven't, though. Are you sure the boys and girls aren't kidding you when they say he's crazy about you and kids them along without meaning a thing by it? That is possible you know. But something in his manner makes you think it's true, eh? You can be true to yourself and make him feel ashamed of his insincerity, and that's about all, I'm afraid.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have lived with my husband 25 years. We have two grown sons. The last five years my husband has been growing cold, has no love or affection for me. There was another woman he cared for, but that was five years ago. For a time she cared for him, then turned him down flat.

"He has changed so since. I have checked myself over and over and don't know what I have failed in. Our boys notice his coldness to me, but don't know why. I am dying for his love, for I still love him and always will."

"PEARL."

Probably the other woman, by turning your husband down, hurt his vanity sorely, Pearl, and as he knows very well he treated you badly, he blames the matter on you. That is very likely the reason of his attitude.

CENTRAL FOOTBALL TEAM WILL TACKLE WITHROW ON FRIDAY

Game Scheduled For 7:45; Xenia After First Victory

Probable starting lineups: Xenia, Gwinner, L. E. Hyman or Lane, Duncan, L. T. Smith, Hall, Kohler, L. G. Lightner, Schwemlein, C. G. Sheets, Clark, R. T. Frazer, Mayne, R. E. Ralls, Gerden, Q. B. Creamer, Foley, L. H. Wagner, Kreimer, R. H. Thompson, Brietenstein, F. B. Dalton. Officials—J. R. Summers, Dayton, referee; H. G. Cutler (Ohio State), umpire; Paul Schenck, Dayton city recreation director, headlineman.

Buccaneer footballers will indulge in their yearly Tiger hunt Friday—but this time, with Xenia Central hopeful of changing its luck, the big game hunt will take place at night under the artificial lighting conditions at Cox Athletic Field here.

Translated into the king's English, Central High's football eleven will seek to beat Cincinnati Withrow on the gridiron for the first time Friday evening.

Xenia grid teams have been after a victory over the Withrow Tigers since way back in 1926, but this annual quest has remained unfulfilled. The best a Buccaneer team has done was to play Withrow a scoreless tie in 1925.

Football rivalry between the two schools began in 1926 when Cincinnati won, 7 to 0 on a sloppy field. The 1927 contest ended in a 19 to 13 Withrow triumph. In 1929 the Tiger margin was overwhelming, 36 to 0. Last fall the Bucs had the Tigers cowed for three quarters, only to wilt in the fourth period and permit Withrow to push over three rapid-fire touchdowns and win, 25 to 12.

Withrow has at least another fairly strong team again this season, despite its 33 to 0 walloping inflicted by Portsmouth last Saturday. Previously this fall, the Tigers had soundly beaten Urbana and Cincinnati Norwood.

The Withrow line is green but in the backfield, the school has a good ball-totter in Fullback Brietenstein and another good offensive threat in Quarterback Gerden.

To accommodate the Cincinnati school's wishes in the matter, owing to the long trip involved, the game here Friday night will start at 7:45 o'clock, fifteen minutes earlier than after dark contests have been given at Cox Field this season.

Dave Reese, Dayton, was originally scheduled to be the referee, but cannot officiate because the game will be played at night, instead of in the afternoon as planned before night football came into being.

The Buccaneers, having won a game, tied a game and lost a game, have nothing more to look forward to in the way of variety, unless it is perhaps the first victory over Withrow in five year of competition.

Bowling

Captain Ray Smith's bowling team won two out of the three games in the weekly match in the Business Men's League Wednesday night. The highest individual three-game total was a 558 series credited to Chalmers Murphy, anchor bowler on the winning team. Box score:

CEDARVILLE PLAYS KENTUCKY ELEVEN

Loser in its first two games this fall, Cedarville College's football stalwarts will go outside the borders of Ohio this week-end to meet a gridiron opponent in Kentucky.

The Borstmen are scheduled to play a night game with Union College at Harboursville, Ky., Saturday evening.

Little is known of the strength of the Kentucky school, which has an enrollment of about 200 students, twice that of Cedarville.

Coach Marvin Borst expects to take twenty players on the 200-mile trip, leaving Friday afternoon. The Yellow Jacket squad is free from injuries. A new type of offense is being introduced in practice sessions this week and Cedarville may show an improved attack in the Union College game.

Students of Central High School will stage a "pep" parade through downtown Xenia Thursday evening preparatory to the Xenia Central-Withrow game to be played here Friday night. Pupils taking part in the parade are to meet in front of the high school at 6:15 p. m. Following the parade the students will hold a "pep" rally around a large bonfire in Shawnee Park.

Monument To Honor Men Slain In Indian Battle

Memorial services will be conducted and a monument unveiled to ten men who lost their lives in the spring of 1779 at Old Town Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The monument is to be of stone and will be placed in the Old Town School yard. The services will be under auspices of the Greene County Historical Society and the Xenia Ministerial Association.

Chief Thomas Wilcat Alford, official historian of the Shawnee Indians, will speak at the services. He will give the Indian side of the battle at Old Town, which resulted in the rout of the militiamen under Gen. Benjamin Logan and Col. James Bowman, which group had come out from Cincinnati to punish the Shawnee Indians at what was then known as Old Chillicothe, now Old Town. The council house of the Shawnee nation stood in this village. The nine white men were killed at Old Town and the Indian near Wayneville in the Little Miami River.

Dr. W. A. Galloway, local historian on Indian lore and president of the Greene County Historical Society, has made erection of the monument possible. The legend contained on the monument has been carefully edited by Chief Alford and is considered correct both from the history of the white invaders and the Indian official reports.

Dr. H. B. McElree, president of the Xenia Ministerial Association, will preside and the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will deliver the memorial address. Music will be furnished by a male quartet, composed of Glenn Reed, Thomas McClelland Jr., Carl Ervin and Herman Eavey. Ample parking space will be provided for machines.

BASEBALL SEASON STILL LIVES WITH GAME BOOKED FOR SUNDAY

The 1931 baseball season remains but a memory almost everywhere else, but it lingers on in Xenia. There will not be another double-header at Washington Park this Sunday afternoon, but a single game has been arranged between the Xenia Merchants and the Rest Haven Park ball club.

The Xenia nine has beaten Rest Haven twice this season both times by close scores, but the Dayton Pike team has permission to "load up" and strengthen its lineup as much as it desires by acquiring new players for Sunday's tilt. Rest Haven will also receive a better "cut" in the gate receipts if it wins, and this should prove an added incentive for the team to beat the Merchants if possible.

Jasper Ankeney, former ace pitcher for Xenia this season, who transferred his allegiance to Rest Haven a month ago, will pitch for the visitors and will strive his utmost to beat his old teammates.

Don Jacobs, Dayton, most recent addition to the Merchants' hurling corps, will twirl for Jess Chambliss.

Veteran Xenia Merchant Has Birthday

HENRY FETZ, pioneer Xenia business man, who spent a half century identified with the business life of Xenia, celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday quietly Wednesday at his home, 23 W. Church St.

It was back in 1889 that Mr. Fetz, a young man just embarking on a business career, entered the retail grocery business here in association with his brother, the late George Fetz. They organized the firm known as Fetz Bros., a familiar business signature here more than fifty years and still being carried as the firm name.

The grocery was established at Detroit and Second Sts., in the room it still occupies and where it is now carried on by Mr. Fetz's son, Paul G. Fetz. Few businesses being operated at the time Mr. Fetz began his business career here, are still in existence under the same name.

Although handicapped by arthritis, Mr. Fetz enjoys unusually good health otherwise, and maintains his keen interest in affairs. He is a director of the Citizens National Bank.

Surrounded by members of his immediate family, Mr. Fetz celebrated his birthday with a dinner party at his home—Wednesday evening, and annual custom. He received many congratulations upon the occasion.

AUDITOR WILL MEET TAXING DISTRICTS ON BUDGET SLASHES

A series of conferences with authorized representatives of all taxing districts in Greene County to apprise them of the reasons that will necessitate cuts on 1932 budget allowances is being sponsored by County Auditor James J. Curlett. "The tax duplicate for next year will be considerably less than the current year," Auditor Curlett advised in letters sent to members and clerks of all school boards, township board trustees, village councils and City Commission of Xenia.

"This shrinkage of duplicate values is due in part to the reappraisal but largely through the operation of the new tax laws," the auditor explained.

"The time again has arrived for the setting of tax rates for the coming year. In view of the decrease of the tax duplicate, practically no district will receive the amount requested in its budget, especially those districts that have levied up to the fifteen mill limitation last year."

To apprise them of the existing situation, conferences are being held in the auditor's office with the boards of each district. Attempts are being made to adjust budget requests equitably at these meetings. The conferences are limited to one and one-half hours. Already the auditor has met with the Xenia city and township school boards, Cedarville schools and village council.

BOOTH'S GENIUS IS SEEN IN HARRISON, PLAYING "DE LAWD"

By W. F. PETERSON
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—"De Lawd"—who is Richard B. Harrison, playing the role of the deity in "The Green Pastures"—has started on his sixty-ninth year.

Following his regular nightly performance in the naive spiritual drama, the celebrated Negro actor recently was honored guest of a mammoth birthday party in the Eighth Regiment Armory. Several thousand Negroes, as well as admirers of the white race, joined in paying tribute to Harrison. Congressman Oscar De Priest was the principal speaker of the evening.

Stardom in "The Green Pastures," which came to Chicago following a long run in New York, represents a brilliant climax in Harrison's up-and-down career.

There is a rumor prevalent in theatrical circles that Harrison, through psychic channels, may be the inheritor of the genius of Edwin Booth, the greatest of American actors.

The story, which is discounted by scientists but accepted by some laymen, is that Harrison received his acting abilities through prenatal influence.

In 1862, according to the tale, Harrison's mother, a slave, fled from St. Louis to New York by the "underground railroad." In New York they joined the Negro exodus to Haiti. But Mrs. Harrison, expecting to become a mother, returned to America so that her child could be born here.

Due to the solicitude of her former owners, Mrs. Harrison was cultured and well educated. While in New York she saw Edwin Booth play the title role in Shakespeare's Richard III.

The baby was born in London, Canada, whither the Harrisons moved, and was named Richard, after the character played by Booth.

Mrs. Harrison was insistent that her son receive a thorough literary education. His aspirations turned to the ministry.

In the end, Richard B. Harrison became a dramatic reader instead of a minister. He prepared to be a reader while earning a living as a bell boy, a porter, a newsboy, and a telephone operator in a Chicago police station.

By 1900 Harrison was supporting his family by his readings, and in 1920 he was teaching drama in southern Negro colleges and doing educational and religious work for a council of churches in New York.

At the age of 66 he received a sudden offer to play the part of "De Lawd" in "The Green Pastures." At first reluctant, he was persuaded to accept when it was pointed out that the production would give work to scores of fellow Negroes.

Critics have unanimously agreed that Harrison interprets the Southern dandy's conception of the Lord with distinction and honor. His portrayal of the deity as has often been remarked, is without irreverence and is marked by gentle nobility.

CAR TOOTED OWN ALARM
LONDON, Oct. 15.—A car sounded its own horn and saved a garage and other automobiles from destruction when it caught fire at Chester recently. The heat of the flames caused the electric horn to toot. A man was attracted by the sound and gave the alarm. The fire brigade saved the other cars; but the car that had sounded the alarm was destroyed.

COMMITTEE BOO STING XENIA AS SITE FOR VETERANS' HOSPITAL

Efforts to have Xenia selected as the site for the proposed new $2,000,000 United States Veterans' Hospital have been given impetus by the activities of a local committee working on the project. The committee, composed of representatives of civic and patriotic organizations, is functioning actively in the interests of obtaining the hospital for this city. The advantage to be obtained from success in this program is emphasized by the estimate that it would increase the business revenue of this city more than $1,000,000 a year.

This fact is disclosed following a study of expenditures of similar institutions located in other sections of the country. It is reported that the average cost of operating a hospital of the size and type planned—550 beds—is $5.10 a patient a day. Based on the maximum capacity, which is assured by the present long waiting list, this would mean a total expenditure of $1,023,825 each year, exclusive of physician and surgeon fees. This figure does not include the revenue which would be derived by railroads and other transportation agencies entering Xenia or the expenditures in hotels, restaurants and retail establishments of friends and relatives of those in the hospital who will visit the city.

Support of public opinion locally is urged in view of these material advantages to accrue to the city where the hospital is located, it being pointed out that, based on the average family-earned income, the expenditure of $1,000,000 a year would be equal to that of 400 new families or an industry employing 560 wage earners.

The joint committee furthering the location of the hospital in Xenia, points out that a small city has advantages over a metropolis as a location for the hospital, and that all other advantages are equal, including easy access to the best medical and surgical services possible.

The joint committee working on the project follows: C. L. Darlington, R. D. Williamson, D. W. Cherry, W. R. Harner and Captain Harold L. Hays from the Rotary Club; J. A. Chew, C. C. Frazer and P. E. Cox from the Xenia Retail Merchants Association; Paul Fuller, Ohmer Tate, Harry Smith, Fred Lang, and Dr. H. Q. Messenger from Food Post, American Legion and from the Kiwanis Club, Dr. Paul D. Espey, Harry E. Rice and W. W. Galloway.

This group has been holding meetings, consulting with political leaders and leaving no stone unturned in the effort to influence location of the hospital here.

SUIT AGAINST LONG DECLARES FRAUD IN REAL ESTATE DEAL

Declaring she was defrauded in a real estate transaction, Ruth H. Kirkpatrick, Columbus, has brought suit for $487.50 in Common Pleas Court against T. C. Long, former Xenia real estate broker, and the Glen Falls Indemnity Co., his surety.

The Columbus woman sets forth in her petition that she entered into a written contract August 21, 1930 with A. M. and Mary E. Linhart, Xenia Twp., for the purchase of a thirty-nine acre farm situated three miles north of Xenia along the Springfield Pike, adjoining the municipal waterworks plant.

The transaction was made through the agency of Long, the deal to be consummated March 1, 1931, according to the plaintiff, who asserts she deposited $500 with the realtor as a binder to be applied on the purchase price.

It is claimed in the petition that the real estate agent failed to live up to his agreement to negotiate a loan for his client to complete the deal, and that he also failed to return the $500 deposit to the plaintiff after the transaction had fallen through.

Setting forth that Long is entitled to a credit of $12.50, the plaintiff asks judgment for $487.50, balance of her $500 deposit, plus interest. Marshall and Marshall are attorneys for the plaintiff.

LOST UGLY FAT

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her best—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unbundled her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:

"Having heard from a friend of mine that he had lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 153 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way. I have inquired of my dressmaker my measurements, which in August last were—Bust 40, Hips 43½, Waist 25½ inches. Last week they were—Bust 38, Hips 40, Waist 21 inches, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

(Mrs. S. R. London, England. A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last four weeks costs but 85 cents—Try one bottle—if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

"SAFETY FOR CHILDREN"

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—A campaign to make the streets safe for children is being conducted by the Chicago safety council which is urging all motorists to obey school boy "policemen". They are selected among the dependable boys of the schools and are instructed to direct traffic at their schools.

UNION SERVICES AT CHURCHES CONTINUE

The second of the series of union services by five Xenia churches was held Sunday evening at Trinity M. E. Church with the Rev. W. W. Foust, pastor of the First Reformed Church, as speaker. The subject of the series is "The New Testament Churches" and the Rev. Mr. Foust spoke on "Ephesus—the Fallen Church."

The Rev. Mr. Foust had his audience imagine the fallen church was in Xenia rather than one in a far-off land and said, "Jesus has an interest in the churches of Xenia and walks in the midst of the churches. There is hope for a fallen church and that hope is in a remedy—the remedy of 'repentance' or restoration in Christ. A church revives when members repent of all their known sins."

The third of the series will be held Sunday evening at the Presbyterian Church and the Rev. E. A. Rager, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, will speak on "Smyrna—the Faithful Church."

Quicker than a wink

You can wink your eye in 1-10th of a second. It's about the fastest movement you can make. But it's pretty slow compared to the 5-1000ths of a second your automobile engine allows, at 30 miles an hour, for gasoline in each cylinder to ignite, burn, and start the piston downward. Think of it! Twenty times quicker than a wink, and it must burn completely or you'll be troubled with carbon—it must burn evenly and instantly or you lose power.

It takes a premium grade gasoline, such as Purol-Ethyl, with surging power refined into it, to give you this full-powered, hair-trigger action your motor requires for maximum performance!

Ethyl fluid in Purol-Ethyl utilizes all the power of the gasoline by eliminating the "knock". But in Purol-Ethyl, the gasoline itself is packed full of eager energy.

It ignites instantly, making quick starting a reality. It burns evenly, eliminating vibration. It burns completely, leaving less carbon, and gives greater mileage because all of it is converted into purring power.

Unleash the full power of your motor—get out of the power plant all your manufacturer built into it. Fill up today with Purol-Ethyl and enjoy split-second performance. There is a difference.

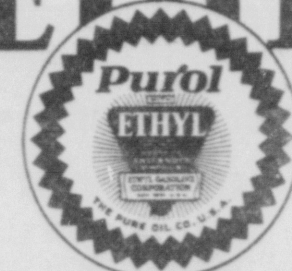

Under a guiding hand, an elephant will pick up a peanut with dexterity or move a ton of rock. Gasoline, also, needs a guiding hand to develop all your motor's power... The fluid (Ethyl) governs combustion, preventing power-waste, "knock" and overheating.

Purol-ETHYL

Purol-Pep gasoline, refined by the famous Gyro Vapor-Phase process, is anti-knock—"better than regular at regular price."
